DETAILED ACTION

Claims 1-37 are currently pending in this application.

Election/Restrictions

This application is a 371 of PCT/GB04/05018.

1. Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions, which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group, I claim(s) 1-31, drawn to a method for generating hydroxylated 14-membered macrolide compounds comprising producing 14-membered aglycone template and feeding said aglycone template to a strain capable of hydroxylating the aglycone template at the 14 and/or 15 position, wherein said strain express a cytochrome p450 capable of hydroxylating aglycone template.

Group, II claim(s) 32-37, drawn to a compound of formula I of claim 32.

2. The inventions listed as Groups I – II do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: The compounds of Group II are unrelated and each of them is structurally and functionally different, independent and distinct. The only shared technical feature of these groups is that they all relate to polynucleotide encoding a polypeptide cytochrome p450, which hydroxylates said compounds at certain position. However, this shared technical feature is not a “special technical feature” as defined by PCT Rule 13.2 as it does not define a contribution over the art. According to the search report (PCT form 210), a DNA encoding a cytochrome p450 and cytochrome p450 protein is known in the art (Gaisser et al. “Parallel pathways for oxidation of 14-membered polyketide macrolactones in Saccharopolyspora erythraea, Mol microbiology (2002), 44(3):771-781; Xue et al. PNAS, 1998, 95:12111-12116; and US PGPUB 2003/0203425, see IDS), as well as process for producing hydroxylated 14-membered polyketide aglycone in host cell expressing said cytochrome p450 gene. Thus, a DNA encoding a cytochrome p450 protein does not make contribution over the prior art. Thus, all the inventions lack unity of invention

Art Unit: 1652

Restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper because all these inventions listed in this action are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and there would be a serious search and examination burden if restriction were not required because one or more of the following reasons apply:

- (a) the inventions have acquired a separate status in the art in view of their different classification;
- (b) the inventions have acquired a separate status in the art due to their recognized divergent subject matter;
- (c) the inventions require a different field of search (for example, searching different classes/subclasses or electronic resources, or employing different search queries);
- (d) the prior art applicable to one invention would not likely be applicable to another invention;

(e) the inventions are likely to raise different non-prior art issues under 35 U.S.C. 101 and/or 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse. Traversal must be presented at the time of election in order to be considered timely. Failure to timely traverse the requirement will result in the loss of right to petition under 37 CFR 1.144. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable on the elected invention.

If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable upon the elected invention.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Iqbal Chowdhury whose telephone number is 571-272-8137. The examiner can normally be reached on 9:00-5:00.
